

Britastic!

The Brit Awards took place on the 24th of February 2016 and were a big hit in local towns and cities all across Britain. The hosts of the Brit awards were Anthony Mcparlin and Declin Donnelly.

James Bay was one of the major winners of the day and won the award for British Male Solo Artist. There was an award for the Best British Group. The nominations were Blur, Coldplay, Foals, One direction and Years and Years. The winner was Cold play. One of the awards was for the Critics' Choice awards and the nominations were Jack Garret, Izzy bizu and Finally Frances. The winner was Jack Garret.

Adele then won a 2nd major award for the best British Single with her hit song 'Hello'. The next award that was announced was the award for the British Album of the Year. The winner was Adele with her album 25!

The final award of the night was one of the biggest; it was the Global Success Award. The winner of the global success award was, you guessed it, ADELE. Tim peake took the chance to present Adele with this outstanding award and presented it to her thousands of miles away, from space.

School girl Eve watched the Brit Awards and said "My favourite part was when they had live performers on stage and it was fun to watch the hosts Ant and Dec they were really funny."